WASHINGTON CITY.

[illegible] Examined.

[illegible], March 17.—The House committee [illegible] post roads to-day examined [illegible] of Chicago. He testified that Sanderson [illegible] of Barlow, Sanderson & Co. informed [illegible] they paid large sums of money to the [illegible] the post office department under Postmaster General Creswell's administration to secure [illegible] Western mail contracts by means of straw [illegible] Sanderson roomed with the wit[illegible] City and they were intimate friends [illegible] that the firm were bled heavily by [illegible] officials, and that they paid to one [illegible] than $3,000 per quarter to one her [illegible] given a carriage and a pair of horses and [illegible] diamond pin worth $1,000. [illegible] by Sanderson in making these assertions [illegible] said he had seen a book of the firm which [illegible] they set aside a considerable proportion [illegible] from mail contracts to be devoted to such [illegible] Barlow lived East and attended to pay[illegible] money. Witness said that subsequently [illegible] informed him they had turned [illegible] suggested that he better not examine [illegible] been told him on the subject. [illegible] next examine the books of Barlow [illegible] & Co.

Afternoon session.—Witness said he had seen [illegible] books of the firm, which showed they [illegible] considerable proportion of their receipts [illegible] contracts to be devoted to such payments [illegible] lived East and attended to paying out the [illegible] Sanderson afterwards informed him they had [illegible] their books and suggested he better [illegible] remember what had been told him on this subject. The committee will next examine the books of Barlow, Sanderson & Co.

Investigation of Spencer.

[illegible], March 17.—The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections to-day began the [illegible] of the charge against Senator Spencer that he received his election by corrupt [illegible]. Spencer was present with his counsel, the [illegible] Carpenter assisted by Charles [illegible] of one of two Republican State [illegible] Alabama.

Gen. John S. Morgan appeared [illegible] of the Alabama legislature [illegible] postmaster of Mobile at the time of [illegible] and now deputy collector [illegible] at that point, was examined [illegible] April last. He Moulton was [illegible] before the committee of the [illegible] that money was used to secure [illegible] Gen. Morgan read from [illegible] testimony [illegible] and asked if the answers [illegible] Moulton in every [illegible] answers contained [illegible] knowledge of corruption emphatically denied [illegible] ever given such testimony. He spoke [illegible] the statement attributed to him [illegible] testimony that he had asked Spencer [illegible] said he had requested a loan [illegible] subsequently Spencer handed him [illegible] which he Spencer said was all he [illegible] at that time. Sale of Post-Traderships.

[illegible] dispatch published in the New York Herald [illegible] Bismarck including him with others in [illegible] of post traderships and said he appeared there voluntarily to deny under oath every statement concerning him in that article. He had never in any way directly or indirectly been concerned in the sale of post traderships or in any bargain in any way affecting [illegible] traderships, and no one for him had been authorized to use his name in connection with the sale or barter of post traderships. He said he did not know of any post traders having paid money to the secretary of war or any other person for that privilege. He had heard such things [illegible] in Wyoming but nothing definite nor could he say who [illegible]

C. R. Peck of the firm of Durfee & Peck, who were post traders at Fort Sully [illegible] that the tradership at Fort [illegible] was [illegible] to the firm and given to [illegible] Leighton [illegible] was a partner of Leighton, and J. W. Vaughn was designated [illegible] at Fort Stevenson. [illegible] firm was put out as Peck understood through Orville Grant. James [illegible] Fort Rice. Fitz in conversation with him attributed his appointment to the fact that he [illegible] had been attentive to Mr. Tomlinson, an invalid who had [illegible] his care and a brother of Mrs. [illegible]. Mr. Athey was appointed successor of the firm at Fort Sully. Mr. Peck said he had conversation with the Secretary of War, who told him the appointment had been given to Athey by order of President Grant and that was the reason why his firm was put out. Athey had been clerk for W. S. Babcock, Surveyor General of Arkansas and brother of [illegible] Babcock the President's private secretary. It was a valuable post when the firm had it, netting about $10,000 a year. The firm entered into a contract with Athey who had no means. W. [illegible] Babcock [illegible] Athey at the rate of $1,500 a year until he could furnish the means to purchase the stock and supplies of Durfee & Peck. Athey subsequently obtained such means. Witness supposed the appointment was procured through the influence of Babcock. In fact it was so understood between him and Athey. It further appears from the testimony that Durfee & Peck were Indian traders at Cheyenne under the license of the Interior Department, and were succeeded by Gen. Felt to whom the firm sold their stock at satisfactory prices. Witness understood Felt's appointment was through the influence of Orville Grant. The post was worth from $8,000 to $10,000 a year. Their trade at Standing Rock was worth about $10,000 a year. Witness attributed the removal of the firm at that place to Orville Grant having understood an order for a revocation of the license of Durfee & Peck was issued from the Indian bureau. Witness asked the Secretary of the Interior about it and the Secretary informed him the order was issued by direction of the President. The Secretary said that if he did not cut off a head when he was ordered to do so the President would cut his head off. There was no complaint against the firm of Durfee & Peck. Witness detailed the character of the contract with Athey, which was that in consideration that he would buy up the stock of Durfee & Peck he was to receive a salary at the rate of $1,500 a year until he should do so. This was done to protect the interests of the firm, as they had forty thousand dollars worth of goods at the post and as Athey might haul goods there at any time and until Athey should buy the goods of the firm they were to pay Surveyor General Babcock $750 a quarter. This they did for three quarters making a sum of $2,250. This was in consideration of Babcock's having procured the contract. Witness said the proclamation of the President extending the great Sioux reservation enhanced the value of the posts on that reservation. Cheyenne and Standing Rock posts were on the great Sioux reservation. The effect of the proclamation was to drive away all competition.

Question—Do you know the reason which induced the issuance of the proclamation?

Answer—It was generally understood out there that it was through the influence of Orville Grant.

Question—To close out all competition?

Answer—Yes sir, which it did. Adjourned.

Soldiers' Tombstone Contracts.

Washington, March 17.—Maurice J. Walsh of New York appeared before the committee on military affairs to-day in reference to the soldiers tombstone contracts. He claims that although his bid for first class Carrara marble was only some $60,000, out of which $30,000 was to come back to the Government in the shape of duty on the imported article, the contract was given to Mr. Bridges of Keokuk, Iowa, for $100,000 for American marble of a very inferior quality and without any such advantage [illegible]. He charges that [illegible] was put in after the hour fixed for [illegible] the bids, and after two bids [illegible] had been opened. He asserts that [illegible] was allowed to [illegible] the extent of $70,000 [illegible] requirements in the specifications after the bids were in.

Irish Rifle Team.

London, March 17.—A dispatch to the press association from Dublin says the deputation from the Irish Rifle Association to-day had an interview with Major Leech, late captain of the Irish team and requested him to organize an Irish team to enter the International match at Philadelphia. Major Leech replied he would do all in his power. He regretted that the national association had been unable to form a British team and presumed each country would now send its own representatives.

Sour Grapes.

Paris, March 17.—Ex-Minister Buffet attended a reception given by President MacMahon to-day. He reiterates his declaration that he will not accept a nomination as candidate for any vacancy in the Senate or Chamber of Deputies.

Prefects Removed.

It is understood that the prefects of the departments of Gard, Gironde, Bouches Du Rhone, Vaucluse and Haute Loire will be dismissed, and that Marquis De Madillac, the Legitimist prefect of the Basses Pyrenees and a notorious abettor of Carlism, will also be removed. The senate has completed the verification of elections of all its members except two. The election of Marshal Canrobert for the department of Lot was declared valid without discussion. The report upon the conduct of the election in Gironde and Bouches Du Rhone shows that the prefects persecuted Republican candidates without intermission, and supported Bonapartists. The Senate however, confirms the result of the election in the latter department by a small majority. The elections of Bonapartists M. M. Dupartre and Alexander in Savoy, were also confirmed, in spite of a demand for an inquiry. M. Herold, of the Left, supported the demand by citing the conduct of the prefect. The Marquis De Fournes who [illegible] had dismissed certain Republican officials and dismissed the delegates of some communes.

The Times special from Vienna says that the Austrian representative at Belgrade had another interview with Prince Milan on Thursday and urged him to make a binding declaration in favor of peace. The Prince asks a few days delay because he could not trust the pacific assurances of Montenegro. He said if Montenegro entered into action he could not remain behind and preparations for war was all the more necessary as the Turks were again concentrating on the Servian frontiers. [illegible] cabinet councils are held daily. It is thought in Belgrade that the government will send a corps of observation to the frontier as it did last year.

THE GRAND MODERN GERMAN PROTOTYPE.

When we speak of the German of the period, we have all of [illegible] unconsciously the [illegible] in our minds the [illegible] the Bismarck [illegible] He [illegible] the likeness of him hangs in the humblest hut. But for him Hans and Michel had not laid down their lives in the French [illegible], but for him had women not so [illegible], not widows so many nor wives so few, but for him taxes had not been so [illegible]. He is the idol of the populace, of that populace which awhile stoned, lampooned, caricatured and reviled him, of that populace that was nothing more than mud at his feet, on the [illegible] the contempt he once showed [illegible] the enemy's portion, the [illegible] his willing instruments, he has known how to read the signs of the times, to seize the chances of the moment, to weld and to mold the old order of things into a new order, to root out the republican idea, to crush down the [illegible] spirit, to grasp the national mind, to hold the nation's heart [illegible]. The national vanity, the popular pride have been flattered by his miraculous successes, surely a grateful people will foster them here. Their good old Emperor is well enough, but even he had not been but for Bismarck. He, gallant old gentleman, has scruples, hesitations, tendernesses of conscience, regrets, is not much other than any private man—but we do not specially care to go out and greet. As for Princes, clothed in soft raiment, dwelling in King's palaces, their name is legion, but this man der Einzige, the only one, unique. His like not again to be seen this side of eternity, a prophet, and more than a prophet. Him we will worship, before him we will fall down. A gigantic mass of all that make manhood he carries a high look with him, fire and reality, as well as blood and iron are in that great figure and big brain. He speaks and it is as though the king of beasts sent his lion roar before him through the forests of which he is lord. The orator first so eloquent seems now but froth and babble, the attempted epigram of the penultimate patriot dwindles into mere spite, prudence becomes pedantry, wanting the rumblings of thunder of the blind threat, the more futile squeak of peevish incompetence. The little sneers have struck too low, they fall unheeded at his feet; he will not stoop to notice them. Let them be; but from his height, Godlike, demonic he will pour forth his lava stream of scathing eloquence, which, by mere attraction of gravitation, reaches its destination in the minute flats beneath him. This stinging tongue, this arrogant intellect, this ruthless will, this keen daring and restless ambition, what are they but the outcome of the age? In him you see the typical German, the [illegible] man, [illegible], the [illegible] man, nay, rather a demi-god unfathomable, terrible. There is, in all modern history, no figure like this figure, no mind like this mind, unless it be the brief apparition of a Mirabeau on a background of unaccomplished destiny. A man for men to fear, for women to love, for, beside that primeval titanic force, there dwells another man in him in strange and striking contrast with the Briareus of the Tribune—a gentle, genial, human hearted man, witty, winning, loving the soft sound of women's voices, the beauty of bright eyes, the prattle of children, the yellowing woods, the setting sun. A Titan indeed, but not among minnows! "No great general," says Froude, "ever arose out of a nation of cowards; no great statesman out of a nation of fools." That the mute Moltkes and bashful Bismarcks of the Fatherland are many, we may be sure, but history is careful only of the type. Looking at such a man as this, surrounded by such men as these, we who are but spectators of the drama are almost tempted, since finite man cannot go on infinitely, to re-echo the prayer of Paracelsus and cry: "Make no more giants, God, but elevate the race at once!"—Fraser's Magazine.

St. Patrick's Day.

The Irish population are celebrating St. Patrick's day with much enthusiasm. The procession now passing is very lengthy, the military, civil and benevolent societies turning out in full force. Delegations are also present from the neighboring towns and counties. Great crowds line the streets on the route of the procession. The buildings were profusely decked with flags, banners and emblems. By some mistake in the organization a break of about a quarter of a mile occurred between the second and third divisions which was with difficulty closed. The literary exercises will be held at Union hall.

Festivities of St. Patrick's day are continued this evening by the annual ball of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Knights of Red Branch. MacMahon and other military organizations have their usual reunions with private parties. The oration to-day at Union hall by Rev. Tobin was an eloquent review of Irish history and was well received by the crowded audience, [illegible] were the poem and [illegible]. The day has passed in a quiet orderly manner and without noteworthy incident.

Los Angeles, March 17.—St. Patrick's day was fitly celebrated by our Irish fellow citizens in parade with flags and banners. To-day the Ancient Order of Hibernians appeared in full new regalia and made a conspicuous appearance.

Robert Gardner a Forger.

San Francisco, March 17.—The Chronicle of this morning publishes an article in which it is alleged that during the campaign of 1871, when Robert Gardner was a candidate for surveyor general he collected funds in Humboldt county for the establishment of a party organ there using a letter bearing the signature of Eugene L. Sullivan authorizing him to collect funds. The letter is pronounced a forgery by Mr. Sullivan, who referred the reporter to ex-Gov. Flanders, formerly of Washington Territory, for further information. Flanders states that he was employed at the time to investigate the affair and ascertained that the matter had been manipulated by Gardner and he so reported it to the committee. Gardner would have been dropped from the [illegible] for the short time intervening before the election which made [illegible] substitution of another name impossible.

Delayed Mail Arrived.

The delayed overland trains with five days accumulation of mail matter arrived last evening.

Charged with Incest.

John Costello, an old and well known mason, was arrested yesterday by officer McKenna, on a charge of incest. The alleged partners or victims of his crime are four daughters, respectively 9, 15, 18 and 19 years. The officer declares he has collected abundant evidence to show that the prisoner is an utter brute.

Meeting of Stockholders.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Commercial bank was held last evening. The committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the bank reported that they had thoroughly examined the books, papers and assets of the bank and found that they agreed perfectly with the exhibit of Mr. Pinkham and the report of the committee of directors. A committee of stockholders was appointed to wind up the affairs of the bank.

Snow Blockade Ended.

[illegible], March 17.—The weather [illegible] it has been warm and the snow is thawing fast. [illegible] until the snow falls.

Killed by Premature Explosion.

Austin, March 17.—The Reese River Reveille this evening gives the following: About 9 o'clock this morning a man named Samuel Tout was killed in the Dolly Hyde mine under Lander Hill. He had charged the blast and fired the fuse and retired the usual distance. The blast not exploding as soon as he thought it should he returned to ascertain [illegible] when it exploded, the [illegible] him in the vital parts of the body killing him instantly. The deceased was a native of England, aged [illegible] years and had resided here for a long time.

Suicide.

Carson, March 17.—A man named Edward [illegible] shot himself with a [illegible] loaded with buckshot. He was in the house alone at the time. His family consisting of a wife and five children being absent. When found he was lying upon the bed and had evidently shot himself by placing the muzzle of the gun to his head and pulling the trigger with his foot. He had removed the trigger guard for this purpose. Deceased was about 48 years of age, was in bad health at the time and was to have left for California this evening by the advice of his physician. The inquest will be held to-morrow.

A man named [illegible] formerly owner of a mill on Gold Canyon, near Dayton, in [illegible] early days in White Pine, arrived here some weeks since in apparently destitute circumstances. For some time he has been supported by the Masons. Yesterday he was missed from the hotel, and this morning word was brought that he was at a cabin several miles north of the town and evidently insane. The Masons immediately sent parties after him, and he was found in the cabin, the door of which was barricaded, with his throat terribly cut with a pocket knife which he still held in his hand. Medical assistance was summoned and his wounds sewed up. It is thought he will recover, but a medical examination proves him insane, and he will be taken to the asylum at Woodbridge.

A man named Barnes, while intoxicated shot a Chinaman last night near the depot. The wound was not fatal and Barnes was held in $1,000 bail to appear next Monday.

OREGON.

But little grain has been sown as yet on the North Yamhill.

There is some talk of starting a boot and shoe factory at North Yamhill.

A Bamberger has been declared a common drunkard by the city council of Corvallis.

Corvallis now charges $100 per quarter for whisky license and $50 per quarter for beer license.

There are about sixty cases docketed for the attention of the present term of the Lane county court.

A man named Harvey fell into a fire at Lincoln, Polk county, a few days ago and was badly burned.

The Collegiate Institute at Albany commenced a new quarter last Monday, with an increasing attendance.

Dr. Lee, State Senator of Benton county, is reported quite ill with hemorrhage of the lungs, at Washington city.

Treasurer Simmons went up to Salem recently and paid into the State treasury over $10,000 taxes for Washington county.

At the annual meeting of the Corvallis fire department last Saturday evening George P. Wrenn was elected chief engineer and J. W. Rayburn assistant.

There are nine widows, seven widowers and two old bachelors in Hillsboro, and the Independent suggests that the citizens hold a town meeting and pair them off.

The Independent puts the total loss of sheep killed by wolves and dogs in Washington county in the past year at 300 head, which, at $2 per head, would be $600.

In Patton's valley, Washington county, only about 30 acres of wheat were sown last fall, and the farmers are waiting impatiently for a spell of dry weather to put in their crops.

A number of the farmers in the neighborhood of the Grove, Dilley and Greenville, Washington county, have organized a wolf club and propose to offer a bounty for scalps.

The number of scholars in Washington county between the ages of four and twenty years, is 2,453 as shown by the reports of the district clerks filed in the superintendent's office.

A correspondent of the Register writing from Lebanon under date of March 15th, says: An altercation took place near Sweet Home settlement just across the river on the 13th, between Tyra Alley and Horace Fairchoe, in which the latter was severely injured. It seems they were trying to make a settlement and could not agree, and a fight ensued. Young Fairchoe was struck on the head with an ax near the base of the brain, and is at present quite delirious and out of his mind. Dr. Foley, of Lebanon, was called to his assistance. There is little hope of his recovery. We are not prepared to say who is to blame.

For the past two or three weeks the coyotes have killed a large number of sheep in the district of country lying north of Hillsboro. Wednesday night Wm. Jackson lost several lambs. He found them dead or dying in the brush on his farm near this place with holes in their heads and bitten through the lungs. Mr. McEldowney has lost twelve sheep within a few weeks in the same way. James Imbrie, James Sewall, Isaac Butler and other farmers in the neighborhood have all lost sheep from the wolves. Not less than 50 head of sheep have been killed in that vicinity within the past two weeks. Wm. Jackson alone has lost 25 head.

THE TERRITORIES.

A frost did some damage to vegetables at Olympia on the 8th.

The Salt Lake Mail informs us that 11 miles of track will be added to the Utah Western within the next sixty days.

Sing, a Chinaman, who was in jail at Olympia on a charge of the theft of some jewelry from Mr. Lowe, is at liberty. He left his clothes and went through a small hole.

The Argus says: An old settler of Washington Territory named Gravell died at John Burch's on the Des Chutes river a few days ago. He formerly lived in Pierce county on the prairie north of Yelm, which bears his name and was about 70 years of age. He came to the territory in the Hudson Bay Company's service about 40 years ago.

The Idaho Statesman declares that a mountain of [illegible] earth known as chalk of the white variety exists near Horseshoe Bend, [illegible] valley. Specimens left at that office show it to be a superior quality of the kind known to commerce and enough of it is piled up down there to chalk the chins of all the [illegible] politicians in the universe.

The grave of the famous Kit Carson, the intrepid explorer, is located in a coyote patch somewhere in Southern Colorado, with no monument, no headstone and no marks of any description to indicate the last resting place of the man who was the peer of Benton and Fremont [illegible]. He deserves at least [illegible] something of the sort to [illegible] the grave from the prowling intrusions of the [illegible] of the desert.

A [illegible] Robert Houdin [illegible] once entertained [illegible]. After [illegible] an old Arab asked the privilege [illegible] own pistol. Houdin [illegible] the trial until the next day. In the interval he made two balls of wax [illegible]. One of these he made hollow and filled it with blood. At the performance he allowed the Arab to [illegible] from a saucer full, but in loading the pistol contrived to use the solid wax counterfeit. Of course the trickster was not injured by the firing. "Bah!" he said, "you have been unable to draw blood from me with a bullet, but I will draw blood from yonder wall." He loaded the pistol again, using the other prepared ball, and the stain of blood that was left on the wall astounded the Arab.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State convention [illegible] is hereby called to convene in the city of Portland, on Wednesday, May 17, 1876, at [illegible] o'clock A. M. to select six delegates to the National Republican convention, candidate for [illegible] of the supreme court of the second, third and fifth judicial districts, [illegible] attorneys for the several judicial districts, three presidential electors and a candidate for representative in congress and to transact such other business as may come before the convention.

It is recommended that primary and county conventions in the several counties be held as follows: Primary conventions on Wednesday, April 19th and county conventions on Wednesday, April 26, or at such other times as the county committees may appoint.

The following is the apportionment of delegates in the said convention upon the basis of the Republican vote for representative in Congress in 187[illegible]:

Baker	3	Linn	10
Benton	6	Marion	13
Clackamas	6	Multnomah	13
Clatsop	3	Polk	4
Columbia	1	Tillamook	[illegible]
Coos	[illegible]	Union	[illegible]
Curry	2	Umatilla	4
Douglas	7	Wasco
Grant	3	Washington	4
Jackson	1	Yamhill	8
Josephine
Lake	[illegible]	Total	115
Lane	4

In making this call for a Republican State Convention the State Central Committee realize the fact that too much importance cannot be attached to preliminary operations. This being a government of the people, by the people, for the people, the agents or officers of the government should be in accord with the people. According to the general accepted plan of selecting candidates, the first steps are taken in our primary county and State conventions. These form the ground work of political organization upon which the whole superstructure must stand or fall. If honest men desire honest officials is it asking too much that they lay aside for a day all other business affairs and devote the time necessary to select proper persons to attend county and State conventions?

In view of these considerations and of the important interests at stake we earnestly appeal to all legal voters who are in sympathy with the principles of the Republican party, regardless of personal likes and dislikes to rally at the primaries and see to it that none but true men are entrusted with the business of preparing for the coming political campaign. Select men who are not only true themselves in the broadest sense of that term but men of decision, men who can and will choose wisely for the good of the people in defiance of "rings" and cliques.

It is unnecessary at this time to reiterate in this call the principles of the Republican party. Its glorious record is still fresh in the memory of an enlightened public. It is sound upon all the great principles affecting our national existence. It is the party of progress and development. It exposes corruption wherever found and inflicts punishment upon conspirators, fearful and sudden, without respect of person or position. It favors the universal enlightenment of the people without trammel of creed or ism, and its banner is found in the van leading on the hosts of reformers in all that tends to higher civilization and enlarged freedom.

The calcium lights used in theaters are made by burning hydrogen and oxygen gases brought in contact at the point of flame. Should they get mixed in bulk an explosion would be the result, and that happened on the stage of a Rochester theater. The noise was loud, the place was instantly filled with dust, and the concussion extinguished all the gas lights. Of course somebody shouted "Fire." The manager prevented a panic by quickly telling the orchestra to play a lively air. The people probably reasoned that such music was incompatible with danger. They were quieted by it, anyhow.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.
With every advance of emigration into the far West a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural or mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the Bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels to which climatic changes, exposure and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

SOONER OR LATER a neglected Cold will develop a constant Cough, shortness of Breath, Failing Strength and Wasting of Flesh—all symptomatic of Consumption. In other instances the same cause will produce Bronchitis, a disease of the branches of the windpipe. In all affections of the Pulmonary organs as well as in Bronchial complaints, Jayne's Expectorant is both a palliative and a curative, as the testimony of thousands and its world wide reputation attests; while in Coughs and Colds it acts speedily and when taken according to directions promptly removes them.

Fortify and Tone the Feeble Cough-torn Lungs with HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR, and they will soon assume their healthy and regular action. It is an absolute safeguard against consumption.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Coughs.—A Medicinal Preparation in the form of a lozenge is the most convenient. Brown's Bronchial Troches allay irritation which induces coughing, giving relief in Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Influenza, Consumptive and Asthmatic complaints.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 18, 1876.

THE DUTY OF GOOD CITIZENS.

[illegible] primaries [illegible] held [illegible] to select delegates [illegible] county and State [illegible] which the [illegible] whether he will [illegible] to secure the selection of good men for the different offices, or whether he will shirk all his responsibilities, remain supinely at home [illegible] in them.

The [illegible] of politics [illegible] that it is more [illegible] for [illegible] purposes [illegible] the management of affairs in their own hands, and yet whenever any individual is asked to go to primaries and help choose delegates to nominating conventions he will hang back and refuse, saying that he knows nothing about politics, that it is dirty business, and that he will have nothing to do with it. Not one only says this, but a great majority of the best and most substantial people in the community. They refuse to aid in the selection of delegates, they refuse to be delegates themselves, they [illegible] the whole business [illegible] corrupt, and then wonder why we have bad laws and dishonest officials. Is it any wonder? There are bad men everywhere and in all parties who will if possible obtain control of the machinery of government and use it for their own benefit. A number of these, relying upon the known neglect of political matters on the part of the pure and honest, will unite together and manage the primaries so as to secure the nomination of accomplices or tools of theirs as candidates for State or county offices, and the party will elect them. These will of course do what they were elected to do, and the people will be robbed. This is not surprising. It is just as natural as anything in the world can be. Would any bank officer wonder that the funds in the vault of his bank were to disappear if he entrusted his keys to a thief and took no notice of his actions? If bad men are permitted to manage and control politics, politics must necessarily be corrupted. Who are to blame for this? There are two classes of people to blame. First, those who rob, or who are privy to the robbery; and secondly, those who being able do not prevent the possibility of robbery. In the second class are the persons who stay away from the primaries and permit the control of affairs to fall into bad hands, and who might, if they would, put honest men in office. However, these are persons who suffer most by the fraud and extravagance of officials.

In order to purify politics, the best citizens, as well as the worst, must take active part in the selection of delegates to conventions, in the selection and nomination of candidates for offices and the contest at the polls. There is good sense, honesty and courage enough among them to enable them to penetrate the nefarious schemes of bad men, to refuse to participate in them and to prevent their accomplishment. If we want good government we must work for it ourselves, not leave the work to others. We must go to the primaries, to the conventions and to the polls, not stay at home and in comfortable easy chairs moan over the degeneracy of the times and the wickedness of men in office.

HARD WORDS.

The distinction between hard words and strong words is one too often overlooked or unfelt, specially by those to whom the instruction of the young is entrusted. It is quite possible to speak forcibly without speaking harshly, and there can scarcely be a doubt that to do so is far more effective than to hurl denunciations and offensive epithets at a child, which from his teacher should hear neither. The object a teacher should have in view is to instruct, not simply to subdue—and the instruction to be imparted should not be limited to making the child acquainted with a greater or less number of facts. It should take a far higher range, and should have for its first object to train up the child to be a [illegible] loving gentleman, with as much knowledge of literature and science as can be added thereto. Strength of will and firmness are certainly indispensable requisites in a teacher, for the young of the human species are often hard to manage. But with that firmness should be mildness of manner, which will never be mistaken for weakness. If violence in action and speech is shown by the teacher, if he is harsh and rough, he will never win the confidence of his pupils, and will lose the best means of moulding their character and influencing their dispositions. A child who hears himself called a stupid [illegible] that [illegible] will treat [illegible] and if he [illegible] high spirit [illegible] will resent the insult [illegible] will be [illegible]. In either case the harmony which should exist between [illegible] has been disturbed, the germ of a feeling of antagonism has been placed in the child's mind, his respect for his teacher, who has abused him and degraded himself by the use of [illegible] has been impaired, and the [illegible] respect which [illegible]. When this has [illegible] [illegible] will [illegible].

The greatest teacher England ever had [illegible] Arnold [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] which, though [illegible] sharp, were always dignified. He well knew [illegible] when it was necessary [illegible], but the language he used was always that of a polished gentleman. He was [illegible] and when he died he was [illegible] by his pupils, who felt that they had lost one of their best friends. All teachers cannot equal Dr. Arnold in everything, but in one thing at least they can emulate his example. If they cannot hope to be as wise and learned as he, they can at least try to be as patient with the dull, and as gentle and forbearing with the wild and rash young things as he. It may be more difficult to control by gentle firmness than by violent force—and we know the temptation felt by a teacher to [illegible] the [illegible] but when the [illegible] the teacher, to say nothing of the [illegible] but the more important advantage it is to the child [illegible] worth while to strive for it.

CASCADES NOTES.

[illegible] under date of March 16th sends the following items:

Mumps are prevalent here.

The prospect of having [illegible] fruit this year is very strong.

Some of our citizens are ornamenting their [illegible] having some handsome trees set out in their yards.

Several stock raisers in our vicinity have lost a great many sheep lately, supposed to be by panthers and cougars.

Mr. Thos. Moffet [illegible] having a large addition attached to his store. We may judge from this that he is doing a good business.

Last Sunday the ground was covered with very near four inches of snow, and all day long the sleigh bells were merrily resounding in all directions.

Last summer some young men ascended a large mountain in this vicinity commonly called "[illegible] Hill," and placed there a large red flag which has remained on the peak up to the present time. It is the intention of some young ladies, assisted by our gallants, to try and make the ascent this summer.

A meeting of the members of the Presbyterian Church and congregation of Corvallis was held in their church last Sunday after the regular morning service to arrange for the supplying of their pulpit for the coming year. Rev. J. F. Knowles, who has occupied the pulpit for the last six months, was unanimously invited to supply it for the coming year, which begins with May.

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

AS A PROOF OF WHAT I HAVE HERETOFORE stated to the people of Oregon, I give below a letter from the Plummer Fruit Drying Co. of East Portland. After the close of business [illegible] fully endorsing it after using it one entire season, and as a proof to substantiate what they say, they now contemplate putting up another Dryer of the same capacity of the one they now have, which will increase their capacity to five hundred bushels of apples per day. Having now located here in Portland for the purpose of supplying the demand for Fruit Dryers in Oregon and Washington Territory, I can supply these dryers at a cost of from $1 00 to $5,000, according to capacity. Warranted to dry from [illegible] bushels of apples per hour at a small cost for labor and fuel. These machines being so cheap and simple in construction they cannot fail to supersede all other known machines. I would also say to the fruit growers that I have invented a Machine (and am now waiting for a patent) that will cut and spread the fruit on the trays with a very small amount of labor. I also have invented a Peach Parer that is an entirely new principle, paring soft as well as hard, does its work well with great speed, and slices and pits the fruit ready for the Dryer in the best possible manner and at a great saving in quantity of fruit.

Having become somewhat acquainted with the wants of the people I find that a cheap DRYER is what is wanted, and one that will do good work and a large amount of it. I have so modified my Dryer as to meet that demand, and can now guarantee my CHEAP DRYER to do as good work as any, and as large an amount of it, and the price is within the reach of all.

W. S. PLUMMER, Patentee,
Portland, Oregon.

FRUIT DRYER TESTIMONIALS.

EAST PORTLAND, Jan. 4th, 1876.

MR. W. S. PLUMMER—Dear Sir: As this is a time when all are much interested in Fruit Drying, we think that in justice to you and for the information of the public it is but right and proper that we should give all the information that we can. Now after having operated your Dryer during this season we feel warranted in saying that for the amount of money invested we still believe as we did from the start that your Dryer is the best Dryer yet introduced into this country. The capacity of the Dryer we find to be about 8 (eight) bushels per hour. The Dried fruit we claim to be as good as any, though perhaps not as much bleached as the Alden Fruit, and we are satisfied that we can produce Dried Fruit at less expense than the Alden. The stockholders of our Company manifested their confidence in the Plummer Dryer at our meeting last Saturday by a unanimous vote to increase the capital stock $12,000 (twelve thousand dollars) for the purpose of adding one more Dryer to the present one and making other improvements for next season. We will further say that we believe that by an improvement made by the patentee in the Heater and Fruit that there will be an increase of capacity and a saving of fuel.

H. HANSON, President.
[illegible] NEWELL, Secretary and Superintendent.

EAST PORTLAND, Dec. 1?, 187[illegible]

MR. PLUMMER—Dear Sir: I have been waiting both the Alden and your Fruit Dryer the past season [illegible] to determine which was the best Machine for drying Prunes. I visited the Alden Dryer at Oregon City and examined the Prunes dried in that Machine, and I have also examined several lots dried on your Machine at East Portland, and my opinion is that your Dryer is far the best Machine for drying Prunes. My reasons are these: Your Machine dries them without bursting or cracking, while I noticed that a great deal of the fruit dried on the Alden Machine was bursted open and after a Prune is bursted in drying it is worthless for a market as a Prune; therefore I can recommend your Machine for drying Prunes or any thing else. Yours truly,
H. W. PRETTYMAN,
Proprietor of Eastern [illegible] Nursery.

PORTLAND, Jan. 10, 187[illegible]

MR. W. S. PLUMMER—Dear Sir: The Dryer you purchased by us from you for the purpose of drying our Onions has now been in operation two months, and runs upon [illegible] All those that have tried the product pronounce it the very best quality. Yours truly, [illegible]

TWO FARMS IN EASTERN OREGON CONtaining the necessary apparatus pertaining thereto, such as implements of husbandry, also stock, teams, a fine collection of brood mares and young horses, etc., etc. All fenced, and is very rich prairie bottom land and under a good state of cultivation, yielding last year 60 bushels of oats to the acre. One of 500 acres adjoining the town of LaGrande, Union county, Oregon, and in close proximity to the University, one of the finest schools in the State, has a pure stream of water running through it the year around, with dwelling house and necessary outbuildings. The other situated about 5 miles from LaGrande, containing 320 acres of equally as good soil, about one half good hay land, the balance good agricultural land, capable of raising 40 bushels of wheat or 80 bushels of oats to the acre; also prairie land. The best fenced farm in the country, in a good neighborhood, close to mills and schools, and only 2 miles to an extensive grazing country of fine bunch grass, cannot be excelled for stock raising purposes. Also in the town of LaGrande a Livery Stable, with stock, carriages, buggies and everything necessary to carry it on; also a good residence, well furnished, with nice garden attached, also 5 acres of an orchard of the choicest fruits bearing well every year. Having business elsewhere I am desirous of selling or exchanging part or all of the above described property for a good farm or lands in the Willamette valley.

GOOD [illegible] COLONEL. A Washington correspondent writing to the Jacksonville Sentinel under a late date says: "[illegible] Colonel [illegible] W. Johnson [illegible] 1016 Tenth street [illegible] [illegible] work on his claims [illegible] [illegible] thousand clients. He [illegible] [illegible] when he left Oregon [illegible] years [illegible] not [illegible] and when [illegible] Mexico the payment of his [illegible] is urging upon Congress [illegible] claims and Congress [illegible] hundred [illegible] and everybody is [illegible] moving in the matter and everybody is [illegible] beginning to feel that it must and will be paid. W[illegible] Wilson was arrested at [illegible] Kash [illegible] Wilson [illegible] by two young men who [illegible] bore a striking resemblance to the fugitive Milton Shepardson. At least [illegible] friends after reading the circular thought [illegible] answered the description [illegible] the arrest. Wilson [illegible] rant their making the arrest. Wilson [illegible] accordingly placed in durance vile and brought down on the evening train. On the [illegible] down the captors were offered $500 for [illegible] chances of making the $1,000 reward by [illegible] son on the train who agreed to take [illegible] the prisoner not proving to be [illegible] ardson. [illegible] however, was [illegible] When this [illegible] judge of the chagrin of the arresting parties when they learned that [illegible] had arrested Wilson and not Shepardson. The loss of time, expenses, etc., footed about $30. Our friends returned home [illegible] but, we trust, wiser men. They will probably be a little more careful who they arrest next time.

A DARING ACT.—Yesterday as the [illegible] sion of our first fellow citizens in [illegible] St. Patrick's [illegible] was passing along [illegible] street beyond [illegible] a horse attached to [illegible] buggy of Dr. H. James that was standing [illegible] occupied by the sidewalk awaiting the [illegible] who was paying a professional visit [illegible] fright at the [illegible] and [illegible] dash for a [illegible]. The doctor at the [illegible] ment, happening to be near, grabbed [illegible] the side of the buggy and was dragged [illegible] fearful speed for the distance of thirty or [illegible] yards. The doctor's perilous position [illegible] viewed with consternation and [illegible] many. By [illegible] management and [illegible] ance he however succeeded in climbing [illegible] the vehicle and getting hold of the [illegible] drawing the [illegible] frantic animal to a [illegible] and respect [illegible] without injury to [illegible] son, horse or buggy, much to the relief of [illegible] friends and lookers on.

A SPLENDID RECEPTION.—We observe the following in a late number of the New [illegible] Mail: "A complimentary reception in [illegible] of the heroine of the lava beds, Winema, the Indian woman who saved the life of [illegible] Meacham at the period [illegible] when General Canby and Rev. Dr. [illegible] were assassinated by the Modocs, A[illegible] 187[illegible], will be given at the Cooper Institute Wednesday evening next. The entertainment will be given for the purpose of raising [illegible] to purchase a home for Winema. W[illegible] Phillips has consented to deliver his [illegible] ture, and Professor Jay J. Watson [illegible] and Mrs. Annie A. Waters, the pianist, also volunteered their assistance. Colonel A. B. Meacham will recite the tragedy of the lava beds and introduce Winema, after [illegible] she will hold a reception on the platform. The tickets are fifty cents."

A PLEASANT INCIDENT.—During the [illegible] cises at St. Mary's Academy yesterday [illegible] Patrick's celebration, there was a pleasant incident occurring, not down in the programme. As the procession was filing along the [illegible] between the academy and St. Michael's [illegible] lege some boys—students—belonging [illegible] school, not over the ages of 10 and 18 [illegible] appeared on the balcony of the college [illegible] brass instruments and discoursed some [illegible] Irish airs to the delight and wonder of their friends. We learn that the members of this musical band have been practicing [illegible] five or six weeks under the leadership [illegible] S. White. [illegible] Considering the [illegible] practice and ages of these young gentlemen, the proficiency attained they did remarkably well, and we congratulate their tutor [illegible] successful manner in which they acquitted themselves.

SPECIAL TERM.—Our regular correspondent at Kalama sends the following note under date of the 16th inst.: "I send you an account of the proceedings of the district court held here [illegible] adjourned today. [illegible] a special term and the first ever held [illegible] place. Parties capable of judging say [illegible] the most attractive courtroom in the Territory. It was fitted up and furnished by [illegible] Stone and County Auditor H. H. Holt, [illegible] also deputy clerk of the court. These men are artisans of no mean order, and [illegible] courtroom [illegible] to their skill."

THIEVES' THRIVING.—The premises [illegible] D. [illegible] Budd on Clay street, about 7 [illegible] Thursday evening, were invaded by [illegible] and the clothes line relieved of pillow [illegible] sheeting and underclothing to the value of $100 and upwards, much to the annoyance of the good housewife. We sympathize [illegible] hope the rascal may be caught and the [illegible] erly restored. Expose not your linen [illegible] night air is our admonition.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONCERT.—The [illegible] Methodist Sunday school will give a [illegible] to-morrow afternoon commencing at half [illegible] two o'clock. The exercises will consist of music, declamations, dialogues and short addresses. It is expected that Judge [illegible] Hon. Mr. Allen of Olympia will be [illegible] and take part in the exercises. Admission free and a cordial invitation extended.

Hope for the Colonel."—A Washington correspondent writing to the Jacksonville [illegible] under a late date says: "Colonel Jas. [illegible] Johnson is at 1010 Tenth street, where [illegible] rooms, he is generally [illegible] with his [illegible] hard at work on his claims and [illegible] his two thousand clients. He looks [illegible] years younger than when he left Oregon, and why should he not? for the Government [illegible] upon Mexico the payment of his [illegible] millions of claims and Congress is [illegible] in the matter and everybody is now beginning to feel that it must and will be paid. At the close of the rebellion the Texas troops [illegible] were disarmed and not replaced [illegible] the border were United States troops. Cortina, a Mexican [illegible], who had thrown himself into the [illegible] Maximilian war about this time, came back commissioned from Mexico as a [illegible] of the Governor of Tamaulipas, and [illegible] the border unguarded, sent his army of thieves and robbers across into Texas, took cattle and horses, and then paid his army and [illegible] the lion's share. Mexico not furnishing a sufficiently large market, he supplied Cuba under contract with beef taken from Texas. [illegible] will not protect our citizens in life and property, against a foreign army of a nation with whom we have profound peace, [illegible] is the flag worth? But our Government is now moving, and Colonel Johnson will soon [illegible] possession of a fortune away up in the millions, as he owns an undivided [illegible]."

Wrong Man Captured.—Thursday [illegible] alias Wilson, was arrested at [illegible] [illegible] young men, who from his appearance [illegible] a striking resemblance to the fugitive [illegible] Shepardson. At least our young [illegible], after reading the circular, thought he answered the description near enough to warrant their making the arrest. Wilson was accordingly placed in durance vile and brought down on the evening train. On the way down the captors were offered $500 for the chance of making the $1,000 reward by a person on the train who agreed to take all the [illegible] of the prisoner not proving to be Shepardson. The offer, however, was declined. When the city was reached and Sheriff [illegible] [illegible], judge of the chagrin of the aspiring parties when they learned that they had arrested Wilson, and not Shepardson. [illegible] of time, expenses etc., footed up about $30. Our friends returned home sadder, but, we trust, wiser men. They will probably be a little more careful who they arrest next time.

A Daring Act.—Yesterday, as the procession of our Irish fellow citizens in honor of St. Patrick's day, was passing along Fourth street, beyond Clay, a horse attached to the buggy of Dr. H. James that was standing, unoccupied by the sidewalk, awaiting the doctor who was paying a professional visit, took fright at the music and crowd and made a dash for a "big run." The doctor at this moment, happening to be near, grabbed hold of the side of the buggy and was dragged at a fearful speed for the distance of thirty or forty yards. The doctor's perilous position was viewed with consternation and horror by many. By good management and perseverance, however, succeeded in climbing into the vehicle and getting hold of the lines and [illegible] the fiery, frantic animal to a quiet and respectful gait without injury to his person, horse or buggy, much to the relief of his friends and lookers on.

A [illegible] Reception.—We observe the following in a late number of the New York Mail: "A complimentary reception in honor of the heroine of the lava beds, Wi-ne-ma, the Indian woman who saved the life of Commissioner Meacham at the peril of her own when General Canby and Rev. Dr. Thomas were assassinated by the Modocs, April 11, 1873, will be given at the Cooper Institute on Wednesday evening next. The entertainment will be given for the purpose of raising funds to [illegible] a home for Wi-ne-ma. Wendell Phillips has consented to deliver his new lecture, and Professor Jay J. Watson, violinist, and Miss Annie A. Waters, the pianist, have also volunteered their assistance. Colonel A. B. Meacham will recite the tragedy of the lava beds, and introduce Wi-ne-ma, after which she will hold a reception on the platform. The tickets are fifty cents."

A Pleasing Incident.—During the exercises at St. Mary's Academy yesterday, St. Patrick's celebration—there was a pleasing incident occurring not down in the programme. As the procession was filing along the street between the academy and St. Michael's College, some boys—students—belonging to the school, not over the ages of 10 and 18 years, appeared on the balcony of the college with their instruments and discoursed some choice [illegible], to the delight and wonderment of their friends. We learn that the members of this musical band have been practicing only for six weeks, under the leadership of [illegible] White, Esq. Considering the time of practice, and ages of these young gentlemen, the proficiency attained, they did remarkably well, and we congratulate their tutor for the successful manner in which they acquitted themselves.

Special Term.—Our regular correspondent at [illegible] sends the following note under date of the 16th inst.: "I send you an abstract of the proceedings of the district court just held here. Court adjourned to-day. This was a special term, and the first ever held at this place. Parties capable of judging say we have the most attractive courtroom in the Territory. It was fitted up and furnished by Sheriff [illegible] and County Auditor H. H. H[illegible], who is also deputy clerk of the court. These gentlemen are artisans of no mean order, and the courtroom testifies to their skill."

Thieves! Thieves!—The premises of Mr. [illegible] Budd, on Clay street, about 7 o'clock [illegible] evening, were invaded by thieves and the clothes line relieved of pillow cases, [illegible] and underclothing to the value of $[illegible] and upwards, much to the annoyance of the good housewife. We sympathize and hope the rascal may be caught and the property restored. Expose not your linen to the night air, is our admonition.

Sunday School Concert.—The Hall street Methodist Sunday school will give a concert to-morrow afternoon, commencing at half past two o'clock. The exercises will consist of music, declamations, dialogues and short addresses. It is expected that Judge Greene and Hon. Mr. Allen, of Olympia, will be present and take part in the exercises. Admission free, and a cordial invitation extended to all.

Weather Report.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, March 17, 1876:

Centennial Orator.—We are informed that the Executive Centennial Committee have tendered Hon. J. W. Nesmith an invitation to deliver the oration on the approaching Fourth of July and that the honorable gentleman has accepted. The committee have made an excellent selection, and that portion of the programme has been entrusted to able hands.

Liberal Association.—The Liberal Association, at their regular meeting to-morrow, will discuss the following question: "That the pre-eminence of [illegible] is due to Science and Art." [illegible] will be opened by Dr. Sloan. All are invited to attend and participate.

Observation Tower.—[illegible] building erected recently opposite [illegible] store is used by [illegible] observations [illegible] has been placed in the [illegible] can [illegible] the instrument referred to.

Old Folks Concert.—Next [illegible] and Ma[illegible] that the above named [illegible] held, and as [illegible] and considerable [illegible] a reasonable [illegible] be successful and entertaining.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

[illegible] SAINT [illegible] CITIZENS [illegible] PORTLAND [illegible] BALL.

From the Orient to the Occident, from the great city where thousands [illegible] to the [illegible] borders of the [illegible] wilderness, the national holiday of Ireland has been celebrated [illegible] with sacred song [illegible] the prosperous merchant [illegible].

[illegible] long hard [illegible] with an almost [illegible] the anniversary of [illegible] Saint [illegible] united their loyalty to [illegible]. They are [illegible] more united than when O'N[illegible] from his mountain fastnesses [illegible] the [illegible] people with [illegible] the defense [illegible].

[illegible] their lives and [illegible] heritage [illegible] in the [illegible] the way [illegible].

[illegible]

Cold, rainy and cheerless [illegible] the light of yesterday morning broke [illegible] the prospects [illegible] the celebration of Ireland's [illegible] Saint was [illegible]. Thirteen hundred and [illegible] years ago the initial celebration of St. Patrick's Day was held in Ireland, and through the long vista of past years his memory has always been carefully preserved and his merits instilled into the minds of the children of Ireland. We are told that by St. Patrick was Ireland's past greatness [illegible]. The thought of what he did for Ireland and the world spurs on every Irishman and causes him to feel that [illegible] Ireland may be free and take her place among the nations of the earth.

At 9 o'clock in the morning the religious exercises of the day began with a grand High mass at the Catholic church.

Ten thirty o'clock A. M. was the hour designated for forming the procession, but the morning broke so unfavorably that it was deemed best by the [illegible] to defer the hour until 2 o'clock. But at that hour the weather proved more propitious. It was determined to form the procession and observe the route of march advertised as well as the regular order of exercises.

About noon the clouds cleared away and the bright warm sunshine came down dispelling the gloom and making all nature rejoice. Promptly at the hour appointed the grand marshal of the day, assisted by his two aids—Frank Malone and M. S. McCall—began to form the procession. Headed by the Portland City Band [illegible] Guard [illegible] command of Capt. Phelan, marched down First street to Ash, out that street to Third and up Third to the corner of Stark, where they were joined by the Hibernian Benevolent Society, under direction of Messrs. M[illegible] and Mulchay. Everything being in readiness the procession moved up Third street. After parading for some time through the principal streets of the city, the procession took up the line of march for the Sisters' Academy, where the musical exercises were to be held.

Reaching the academy the gates were opened and the procession filed into the enclosure, followed by hundreds who had thronged the streets and sidewalks during the whole line of march. As soon as the crowd was arranged and order restored the vocal and instrumental exercises of the pupils of the academy, under the direction of the Sisters, commenced. Just before the exercises began the heavens were overcast with heavy clouds and the rain commenced falling in torrents and continued for some time. Notwithstanding the disagreeable surroundings, about 150 pupils ranging in years from 6 to 18, attired in plain but scrupulously neat dresses, were arranged around the piazza. It was a pleasant sight to see the multitude of bright girlish faces wreathed in sunny smiles in contrast with the cold and gloomy weather. These school girls, with hearts brimful of happiness, under the control and direction of the placid, dignified Sisters of the academy, presented a very gladsome scene and constituted one of the most interesting features of the occasion. A number of beautiful songs were rendered by the pupils, fittingly accompanied by the historic harp, and were appropriately responded to by the band.

When the exercises were concluded the procession reformed and marched down to Oro Fino theater, where the oration was to be delivered. Arriving in front of the theater the procession halted and were allowed to file up the stairway. When the military and civic organizations were comfortably seated hundreds of ladies and gentlemen were permitted to enter the large room until it was densely crowded. On the stage were seated the orator of the day, Mr. R. [illegible] White, president of the day, Mr. John Donovan, marshal, Mr. Ma[illegible] and a number of clergy and other guests. The band discoursed an appropriate air, when the president called the large assemblage to order and after some rather [illegible] remarks introduced the orator of the day,

MR. [illegible] WHITE

Who came forward and [illegible]. He spoke for nearly an hour. His address was very fitting [illegible] and was listened to with the keenest interest and was frequently interrupted with enthusiastic applause. Want of [illegible] we regret to say precludes the publication of Mr. White's oration in its entirety. However we publish a portion. But one opinion seems to exist with reference to the address, and that is, it is among the best which has been delivered in the city for years on a similar occasion. The following is the concluding portion of the

ORATION.

Ireland has produced more than her quota of great men—poets, scholars, statesmen, orators and soldiers, whose names and deeds are perpetuated not by Irishmen alone, but by the peoples of all nations. I do not intend to pass in review the names of these great men [illegible] effect to an occasion like the present [illegible] for no Irishman should try to borrow lustre from ancestral greatness or life from the graves of departed genius, wreaths of laurel to bedeck the living brow. No, rather let us carve out a way for ourselves [illegible] and overcome the prejudices of the world till we find ourselves [illegible] broken army, fortified on every hand by religion, education, honor, virtue and unselfish patriotism. This be the laurel wreath for Irishmen to win. [illegible] it on to a nationality. The result will be unity, a country of our own, and Ireland numbered once more among the nations of the earth. [illegible] silent heroes of the past. [illegible] earth [illegible] [illegible] America [illegible] Ireland's roots [illegible]

Thomas Moore. Surely [illegible] ladies and gentlemen, Ireland has produced heroes [illegible] men who have bled for virtue and mankind. There is scarcely a foot of her soil that is not enriched with the blood of such noble men, and there is not a battle-field, I might say, throughout the world that has not witnessed the valor of Irish soldiers. And ever since the memorable day when gallant Sarsfield, with his unconquered band of heroes, marched through the British lines at Athlone with the harp and sunburst fluttering in the breeze above their head, stepping out to the spirit-stirring and martial music of their own [illegible] with the one wild [illegible] of triumph in defiance of the English besiegers [illegible] subsiding into a heartfelt prayer for [illegible] were about to leave forever [illegible] France and entered the French service, where [illegible] there is an Irish brigade [illegible] Valor and [illegible] to the Irish nation, and the [illegible]. He was [illegible] the Sept of the O'[illegible] in the county of Wicklow [illegible] Dublin. This chief [illegible] of the [illegible] still [illegible] the Irish [illegible]. What [illegible] O'Neills, O'D[illegible] and O'Connors, and many others [illegible] but [illegible] a love of fair play was [illegible] a mistaken sense of honor. Had all the Septs united at that time and attacked England as one we would have fewer English titles bestowed on Irishmen, less patriots' food for English gunpowder, fewer gibbets for Irish victims, less transportation for love of country, and fewer Norburies to decide on life and death, more peace, more happiness and more unity among our countrymen to-day.

Let Erin remember the days of old
Ere her faithless sons betrayed her,
When Malachy wore the collar of gold
He won from the proud invader.

Yes, Ireland was betrayed by these faithless chieftains, betrayed and sold for titles bestowed on them by the English king, titles not a shadow of the honor and worth of those they possessed before as hereditary leaders and chieftains of the Irish Septs. This pandering to the English king resulted in bondage and humiliation. It was the work only of a few of the leading chiefs. The masses of the Irish nation scorned to sell their birthright of nationality and freedom and never have and never will acknowledge English usurpation.

England obtained by bribes and false promises that which she never could have obtained by force of arms, but once within her power she spared no cruelty to destroy the vitality of our race. Taxes were heaped Pelion-like upon the people in order to reduce them to beggary and submission. Schools were denied them that through ignorance they might the more readily become slaves. Their arms were confiscated and so reduced to helplessness, and every heartless and cruel device was resorted to in order to destroy mentally and physically as noble a race of human beings as ever gave honor to the name of man. But all to no purpose, for Irish individuality is bound to assert itself. "Sure ye may convict, but ye can't drive me," and we are a numerous people to-day—so numerous in fact that Ireland is not half big enough to hold us. There is not a land under the canopy of heaven where Irishmen are not to be found, or where the feast of St. Patrick is not celebrated this day.

Although this day should be one of purely religious observance with Irishmen, still we must be pardoned if we mix a little patriotism with the spiritual claims of the day. If we indulge our memories and give our thoughts a holiday with untrammeled permission to wander over the scenes of the past, if they linger with pleasure and pride on the little island which claims so great a portion of our love, if they dwell a little gloomily on the sufferings and injuries which our people have endured, if our patriotism usurps a portion of the religious prerogative of the day, we must be pardoned, for the 17th of March is our only national holiday, our only day of national rejoicing.

And why do we rejoice? Not because our country is in bondage—not because this is the anniversary of St. Patrick's death; we cannot rejoice over these things. We cannot rejoice over past and existing calamities, but we do rejoice that our forefathers were among the first to acknowledge the Son of God on earth. We rejoice that a great and good man blest our country and dying left its children the legacy of faith and a surety of salvation. While we are happy in this knowledge we also rejoice in our nationality and the prospective independence of our country. On this day we are all unadulterated Irishmen, whether born in Ireland or of Irish parents in America, it matters not, for there is nothing in the true Irish blood that sparkles and effervesces on Paddy's day [illegible] us with a desire to be placed face to face with the enemies of [illegible] and have it out with them on the spot.

There are, ladies and gentlemen, a few old [illegible] of informers who feel no inspiration on St. Patrick's day. [illegible] renegades, instances which Ireland had the misfortune to [illegible] people who, pandering to the [illegible] and prejudices of sanctimonious hypocrites, display the treachery of Judas and the weakness of Peter by denying the land that gave them birth and the mother who bore them. What manner of man is he who denies his country? Can he be trusted? Can he be relied on? He is a traitor and a hypocrite, unworthy the notice of any man in Christendom claiming affinity with any nation. Out upon such Varlets. Why should these creatures deny the land of St. Patrick? What country under the canopy of heaven bears a nobler record? What country more tolerant of diversity of creeds and opinions, and what people more [illegible] in their own convictions of right and wrong? What people have done more to advance the standard of Christianity, and what people have ever displayed such [illegible] the children of Ireland? Have they not added a [illegible] to the literature of the world? Have not the arts and sciences [illegible] representation on Irish soil? Have not the martial as well as the pathetic strains of Irish music [illegible] valor or [illegible] in all lands? Have not our valiant captains planned battles and [illegible] victories in nearly every civilized country of the world? Yet some people [illegible] with the [illegible] and [illegible] hypocritical and [illegible] prejudices [illegible] [illegible] filthy [illegible] country. [illegible] a few Irishmen [illegible] tent and equally an island of the sea, should have been so often, by the chances of war, made the prey of foreign nations and subjected to foreign rule, having been first subdued by the Romans, then by the Germans, afterwards by the Danes, and lastly by the Normans, while her neighbor Hibernia, inaccessible to the Romans themselves even when the Orkneys were in their possession, has never been brought to submit to foreign domination till the year of our Lord 1171.

England [illegible] her prejudiced historians and [illegible] no doubt to slander the Irish character. She has her Harpers in New York to poison the minds of the American people and her [illegible] at home. But Ireland has her defender. She has her Father Burke, who at home or abroad is able to [illegible]. [illegible] of Ireland is [illegible] but it has been burned [illegible]. It has become [illegible] but it is time [illegible].

In reference to the late Fenian outbreak in Ireland the London Times complains [illegible] in this manner:

[illegible] should know that [illegible] military force now [illegible] within the United Kingdom [illegible] cannot be much, if at all, less than two hundred thousand men, including soldiery, constabulary, the armed police, volunteer militia and [illegible].

The organization and savagery [illegible] all this [illegible] the United Kingdom [illegible] and the [illegible] provisional patriots of Ireland would still [illegible] them [illegible] naked hands.

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
Who wage by day and wage by night
In groups of three or files of ten
[illegible]
Against two hundred thousand men.

No pomp of war their eyes to blind,
[illegible] of music as they go
[illegible]
[illegible]
They seize the pike, the torch, the [illegible]—
[illegible]
With steadfast eyes and spirits lithe
They face two hundred thousand men.

[illegible]
The scaffold [illegible]
But still moves on the [illegible]
By jail and scaffold undeterred
[illegible]
[illegible]
With teeth firm set and breathing fast
They face two hundred thousand men.

Honor the brave! [illegible] brave
Again [illegible]
We know their foes, we know their [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
In groups of three or files of ten—
[illegible] what avails skill
They face two hundred thousand men.

CONCLUSION.

An appropriate air was rendered at the close by the band, when the assemblage was dismissed. The procession was again reformed and the several organizations escorted back to their respective halls and were disbanded. During the day nothing transpired to mar the pleasure of participants and spectators (if we [illegible] include the weather) or occasion the least unpleasantness. On the contrary everything was managed in a creditable manner and the event passed off quietly and agreeably to all concerned.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Scottish Entertainment.—Masonic Hall was comfortably filled last evening by an appreciative audience to witness the second appearance of Mr. J. C. Fergusson, the Scottish lecturer, humorist and singer. From the opening to the concluding exercise the entertainment—although unique in its character—was keenly appreciated by those who were fortunate enough to witness the performance. The Highland fling, performed by a well known Scottish gentleman of this city, and also the "Sword dance," were interesting and attractive features of the entertainment, and were highly enjoyed.

New Market Theater.—A most thoroughly enjoyable performance was presented last evening at New Market Theater by the Vivian-Kohler combination. Vivian was as vivacious as ever and his inimitable impersonations lost none of their brilliancy and humor. Mr. Kohler, the wonderful musical genius, gave exhibitions of his marvelous skill in performing on a number of instruments, and his efforts were duly appreciated, if hearty applause can be regarded as an indication. Mr. Walter C. Campbell rendered several vocal selections with a power, compass and effect which was very fine. Mrs. Blake's vocal efforts were also worthy of flattering comment and her renderings were warmly applauded by the audience. This afternoon a matinee performance will be given at 2 o'clock for the accommodation of ladies and children. To-night will be the last appearance of the combination in this city for the present.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The complimentary ball to be given [illegible] on Monday night at Turn Halle will evidently [illegible] that as a gentleman and artist Mr. [illegible] is highly appreciated in the community. Several of his beautiful compositions will be played for the first time by an orchestra of rare excellence. Messrs. [illegible] Co., Seus, W. [illegible] and Wm. [illegible] have the management in charge, and in such experienced hands the enjoyment of the company is assured.

Turn Halle was crowded last evening by a gay and festive throng, the occasion being the 10th annual ball given by that popular Irish organization, the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society. The large and brilliantly lighted hall was crowded and all went as merry as the traditional marriage bell. Excellent music was furnished and everything passed off to the entire satisfaction of all present. The hall was tastefully decorated with the flags of Ireland and those of our nation, the colors of which added a pleasing effect to the whole scene. The ladies were not forgetful of the significance of the occasion and almost every one present wore the appropriate color, the green. Better music or more satisfactory arrangements could not have been desired by the most fastidious. At the usual hour the supper was indulged in and no time was lost to again participate in the "mazy." The [illegible] up at a late hour this morning.

BASE BALL NOTES.

A Centennial nine is talked of.

As it now looks neither the Pioneers nor Arctics are likely to play as organizations this year.

Dr. Cat[illegible], the excellent player who astonished Oregon ballists last year, has returned to the East.

Ten men, ten innings, will be the new feature of the game in professional circles this year, but whether the amateurs will be governed by this new order of things remains to be seen.

Since the announcement of the Fourth of July [illegible] celebration, the College Base Ball Club of Salem have [illegible] their [illegible] for the Centennial [illegible] to be awarded.

The Centennial nine which we suppose [illegible] Ridgely pitcher, [illegible] shortstop, [illegible] 1st base, [illegible] Hart [illegible] Diamond [illegible] Whiting [illegible].

[illegible] Boston nine will find it a hard [illegible].

respect to the [illegible] actions [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] wish I hadn't started [illegible] the door of the horse barn [illegible] partly open he heard the sound of [illegible]

[illegible] (jackfed) Hiram to himself, as [illegible] beyond measure "Like Jenny Bates [illegible] got ahead of anything I ever heard [illegible] the old man didn't say a word [illegible]

[illegible] ensued which was at last broken by [illegible] If you must have her, you must [illegible] old lady will want something to say [illegible] She thinks as much of Jenny as I do [illegible] come into the house" [illegible] now I've got to go down to the village [illegible] dark I'll be round sometime to-morrow [illegible]

[illegible] Jenkins waited until he saw his sud[illegible] rival climb the fence between the two [illegible] Then he deliberately unhitched his [illegible] into the wagon and off, never cast[illegible] towards the window where the fair [illegible] in watchful expectation Not until [illegible] his own door did he draw a long [illegible]

[illegible] seems like a dream, said he slowly [illegible] the harness "To think of Jenny [illegible] her own father and biting her [illegible] and she looking as though butter wouldn't melt in her mouth It is just as [illegible] though, in the deacon to kick as 'tis for [illegible] kick The old hypocrite? Well I [illegible] mightily deceived in the Bateses [illegible] Elnathan Rogers feels cranky enough [illegible] got her I just hope she'll kick his [illegible] Lucky for me I overheard what I [illegible]

[illegible] withstanding this self gratulation Hi[illegible] all the pangs of disappointment and [illegible] He had not only lost [illegible] had been cut in the most mortifying [illegible] by a man he held in abhorrence [illegible] He felt that even with what he knew [illegible] if he could spare his rival [illegible] deacon either he would do it [illegible] passed by and Jenny was never out [illegible] One day he went to the [illegible] and while there, standing in front of [illegible] postoffice, Elnathan Rogers drove by with [illegible] deacon's mare [illegible]

[illegible] suppose now he's got Jenny he thinks [illegible] a right to the whole property [illegible] Hiram I wish to gracious the old [illegible] would put her feet through the dash [illegible]

[illegible] night the singing school met at the [illegible] Hiram came late He used [illegible] with the tenors just behind Jenny Bates [illegible] chose a different seat and tried hard [illegible] bass He could not however help [illegible] Elnathan Rogers pass peppermints [illegible] to Jenny, and also write something on [illegible] blank leaf of her singing book, which she [illegible] answered [illegible] of course he'll go home with her to-night [illegible] Hiram It'll be the first time I've [illegible] for a year [illegible] welcome though [illegible] the intermission he kept his seat and [illegible] to be very busy looking for some [illegible] in the singing book that refused to be [illegible] Jenny did not look at him [illegible] doxology closed the school [illegible] and [illegible] was a grand bustling about the door [illegible] purling among the young men to [illegible] of their favorites [illegible] was trying to make his way through [illegible] crowd when he found himself at the [illegible] of Jenny Bates, and [illegible] grateful [illegible] of Elnathan [illegible] in the words [illegible] "Shall I see you home to-night Miss [illegible]"

[illegible] was the prompt reply "I shall [illegible]"

[illegible] was totally unprepared for [illegible]

[illegible] the deacon said [illegible]

[illegible] and he stepped back [illegible] being put out [illegible] is Jenny Bates [illegible]

[illegible] Tell your father he cheated me when I [illegible]

[illegible] Will [illegible] would [illegible] not too late now, think [illegible]

[illegible] the departing crowd I started as Hiram [illegible] singing book in his hand rushed down [illegible] two at a time and up the road to [illegible] Bates' If he was not too late he was [illegible] so for Jenny was just opening the [illegible] of the front yard [illegible] Stop Jenny he exclaimed panting [illegible] Here's your singing book [illegible] It on the seat I tried to overtake you [illegible] You needn't have taken the trouble Mr [illegible] and Jenny with a great [illegible] making a show of going in to the house

[illegible] "Dear Jenny [illegible] wait a minute I know I have acted like a fool at [illegible] plain"

Jennie hesitated made another start to [illegible] I went back to the [illegible] where the discom[illegible] waiting

FRIDAY EVENING March [illegible] 1876

Gold in New York [illegible]

Legal tenders in Portland buying [illegible] selling [illegible]

[illegible] exchange on San Francisco [illegible] per cent

[illegible] with a general improvement [illegible] with the advent of [illegible] it is confidently believed that a tolerably prosperous season will set in An active demand for most articles of domestic produce at moderately fair rates exists and gives a basis for more animation in other departments of trade The monetary situation though not the most favorable, certainly presents no insurmountable obstacle to a large volume of trade in the next two or three months

Dr Lindermann the director of the mint states as his opinion that the production of gold and silver after the 1st of May will be $7,000,000 per month, of which half will be in gold and that the fact cannot but have an important bearing on the gold premium

The Comptroller of the Currency has prepared a statement showing that the amount of additional national bank currency issued under the act of Congress approved July 14 1875 from January 14, 1876, to February 28 1876 inclusive is $12,188, issued previously, $13,168,073, and the total issue from the date of the approval of the act to this time is $13,830,760

The Secretary of the Treasury has directed the retirement of $820,718 in United States notes that being 80 per cent of the new national bank currency issued during the month This will leave the outstanding legal tender circulation until further orders $370,914,[illegible]
